

Goeken to perform at Kennedy Center

Mark your calendars for Sunday, April 27. That's the day Marsha Goeken, Gallaudet sophomore, will be performing at the Kennedy Center for the "Irene Ryan Evening of Scenes."

Goeken, winner of the Irene Ryan acting scholarship for Region II, will be presenting her performance along with 11 other regional Irene Ryan winners at 7:45 that evening in the Kennedy Center's Terrace Theatre. The 12 will be competing for two $2,500 cash prizes.

Richard Coe will be the host for the evening, accompanied by special guests Burr Tillstrom and Kukla and Ollie.

The "Evening of Scenes" is part of the American College Theatre Festival that will be happening at the Kennedy Center April 22-May 11. This is the festival's 12th consecutive year. A number of plays by various colleges have been scheduled through May 11 and other ACTF scholarship awards will be presented.

Goeken won the regional Ryan award when she participated in auditions at Penn State University this past January. She was the first deaf actress to ever be selected to participate on the national level since the establishment of the Ryan scholarship in 1972.

The American College Theatre Festival XII is presented by the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and the Alliance for Arts Education, produced by the University and College Theatre Association and sponsored by the Amoco Oil Companies.

Spring play starts soon at MSSD

South Pacific has been selected as the spring production by the MSSD Performing Arts Department. The cast of 50 includes faculty, staff and students. The same team that brought you Jesus Christ, Superstar at MSSD last year has joined forces again for South Pacific. They include Tim McCarty, director/producer, Eric Malzkahn, sign language interpretation/director, Emmett Woodey, technical director and Marcia Freeman, choreographer.

South Pacific will be performed at 8 p.m. on May 8, 9, 10, 15, 16 and 17 in the MSSD Auditorium. Matinee performances will be presented at 10 a.m. on May 9 and 16. Tickets are now available at MSSD. Contact Susan Galasso at x5831 voice or x5800 TTY between 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. for reservations. Adult tickets are $4 each and student tickets are $2. Last year, the final performances of Jesus Christ, Superstar were sold out, and already the May 9 matinee of the current performance is sold out, so get your tickets now.

Ole Jim update

Renovation of Gallaudet's Ole Jim is progressing on schedule. You may have wondered as you go past the building why there are patches of white paint on the walls and where the stained glass windows have gone. The paint is a fire-retardant required by fire regulations. A second layer of fire-retardant paint will return the building to its original appearance; it was painted brown with lighter trim and contrasting reddish-brown doors. Stained glass windows to match the original ones will be done by the same company that did the glasswork in Chapel Hall. Inside the building, the false ceiling has already been torn down from the second floor to reveal the 32-foot-high wooden beams, and an elevator shaft has been installed. Within the next couple of months you should see a new slate roof going up, and the new stained glass installed.

Deafness encyclopedia project begins

Preparation of a multi-volume Encyclopedia of the Deaf and Deafness which will be finished, it is hoped, by 1987, has begun here.

The Encyclopedia will be a comprehensive collection including articles about deaf individuals, groups, languages, the societies deaf people have participated in (or been excluded from), and deafness itself as a distinct phenomenon with a variety of causes and effects. The set will contain 10 volumes.

The project, under the direction of John Van Cleve, assistant professor of history at Gallaudet, began Feb. 1. It is being supported by a one-year planning grant of $34,900 from the National Endowment for the Humanities, and additional funds from Gallaudet College. This summer, a proposal will be submitted to the National Endowment for the Humanities for a full funding grant.

Funding from private sources will also be solicited.

Van Cleve is currently being assisted with the project by Albert Berke, a deaf Gallaudet graduate who works with the Office of Civil Rights at HEW.

Watch Channel 7!

Next Monday, April 21 at 9 a.m. Nancy Dworkin will be speaking about learning disorders in adults and children on Channel 7's "A.M. Washington." Dr. Dworkin is the director of the Center for Unique Learners in Rockville, MD. The show will be broadcast live and Dr. Dworkin will be answering phone calls from the TV audience. The program will be interpreted and a TTY number will be available so that hearing impaired viewers may voice their concerns.

Members chosen for advisory group on deaf concerns

Just before the spring break, members of the campus deaf faculty and staff completed the nominations and election process for the Advisory Committee on Deafness-Related Concerns.

Members of this first deaf advisory group to the President's Office are Stan Benowitz, KDES; Larry Berke, MSSD; Nathie Couthen, KDES; Astrid Goodstein, English Department; Don Pettingill, Division of Public Services; and Ausma Smits, History Department.

The committee will advise the president through the special assistant to the president and will also assist in recommending a faculty or staff member to be released to work with the special assistant in coordinating at least five mini-task forces composed of both deaf and hearing Gallaudet personnel.

The task forces will study and develop plans, strategies and recommendations in the following areas:

- Quality and coordination of interpreting services.
- Manual communication instructional programs, including orientation to the awareness of the deaf experience.
- Implications for research in deafness, communication and English development.
- On-campus employment issues, job descriptions, recruitment and hiring.
- Education technology, architectural/communication barriers.

Everyone on campus is urged to share concerns and suggestions with the new advisory committee.

NFSD insurance benefits available

The National Fraternal Society of the Deaf recently announced that its life insurance benefits are now available to hearing persons who are involved in the field of deafness.

Parents, children, relatives and co-workers of deaf persons are now eligible to join the fraternal life insurance organization which has served the deaf community for nearly 80 years. The NFSD, one of the oldest fraternal benefit societies in the United States and Canada, offers all popular life insurance plans at a reasonable cost. Sickness and accident benefits, based on loss of time from work, are also available.

The local representative for NFSD in the Washington Metropolitan area is Louis J. Schwarz, a deaf man who has had long-time experience in the insurance field. For questions or assistance on which plan might best meet your needs you can call him at 860-6854 days and 340-1898 evenings.

Serendipity

Library Bits & Pieces

Our name is MUD dept.

The Media Utilization Division room in the Library contains some special equipment and facilities that can be useful in facilitating learning. Two of them are the "self-studio" and the Brailon duplicator.

Ever had to practice something and wished you could see yourself doing it so you could check yourself for errors? You can. The "self-studio", tucked into a back corner of the Media Room, is a place where persons can videotape themselves, using a simple video camera and videorecorder setup, and play the tape back through a television monitor. This has many possible uses, among which are sign language practice, polishing the delivery of a speech, review of a practice interview and evaluation of a dramatic role performance. An improved version of the "self-studio", with easier-to-use equipment, more room, a better backdrop and more privacy, will be available in the new Learning Center.

Ever had material in Braille for a visually handicapped student, needed additional copies and wished there was some way to "Xerox" it? There is. A "Brailon" machine that produces duplicates of Braille originals is in the Media room. There is no charge to use it, but if you do not have the special Brailon paper that is required, it may be purchased from the Media Room at five cents per sheet. One interesting capability of the Brailon is that it can make three-dimensional "copies" of some small objects. An ingenious person can thus use the Brailon to make tactile "illustrations" to accompany the Braille text.

Local computer searching

The Library now has a public computer terminal on which any patron can search several local databases, namely, DEAF, MAGS, NEWBKS, and LING. DEAF is the Library's special collection on deafness and the deaf. MAGS is the listing of the Library's magazines, whether deaf-related or not. It can be used to verify the Library's holdings of a particular magazine or to locate magazines related to a subject or field. NEWBKS is the updating for the ComCat and contains information on regular and deaf-related books not yet available in the ComCat. Once this information is merged into the ComCat, it will be deleted from the NEWBKS file. LING is the database of the Linguistic Research Laboratory collection. The public terminal is located next to the Circulation/Reserve Desk. There are instructions for using it above the terminal.

The basic search strategy to use is Boolean logic. In using Boolean, you need to remember what "and", "or" and "not" will do in combining key search words. "And" will result in a narrower search because a satisfactory document must contain all the stated key concepts. "Children and language" will designate only items with both of these concepts, but will not include language of adults. "Or" will result in a broad search because use of any one of the key concepts will pinpoint a document. "Children or language" would retrieve every item about children, no matter the related subject area, and also every item about language. "Not" will exclude an item if it has an unwanted aspect. If you're looking for doctor's relationships with deaf patients, you could type in "doctor" and retrieve quite a few items. Most of these would not be helpful because Powrie Vaux Doctor wrote so many things.

Therefore a good search strategy would be "doctor not Powrie". That statement would reject all of Dr. Doctor's writings.

When you start using the public terminal, feel free to ask a librarian for help. If you are a teacher, a librarian will be glad to give your class a group demonstration. For more information, contact Carolyn Jones at x5574 or TTY 5575.

America's greatest bargain—the Library

April 13-19 is National Library Week. Sponsored by the American Library Association, this is "a nationwide effort to focus public attention on reading as a source of personal fulfillment, or the importance of reading in the national life, and on libraries which, if used fully and supported properly, can make reading and information accessible to everyone." In these days of mounting inflation, the services at the Library still cost the same as they did 20 years ago—nothing. Come visit us soon!

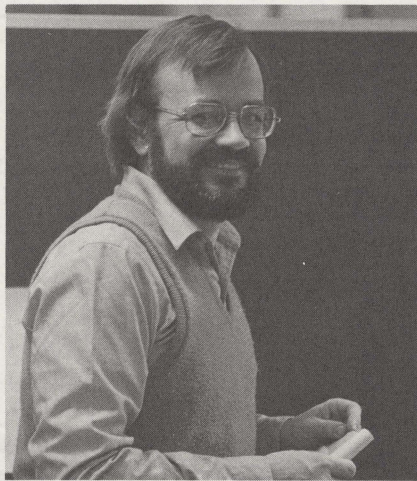

The College Archives will now be open on Tuesday and Thursday nights until 10 p.m.

Donations for Uganda

The College Library is currently collecting items to be sent to schools for the handicapped in Uganda (East Africa). The schools of Uganda are in serious need of all types and levels of educational materials (books, magazines, audio-visuals, games, laboratory and classroom materials . . .). If you have anything which you could donate, please send the items with a note to Gail Wadsworth in the Library or contact her at x5572 (voice) or x5575 (TTY). The Education Officer of the Uganda Embassy will be coming to collect our contributions on Tuesday, April 22, so please hurry. Thank you. Your contributions will be greatly appreciated.

Betty Domich is administrative secretary/production specialist with the Research Institute.

Bob Herbold is assistant director of the Computer Center at MSSD.

Brazilians perform

Brazilian musical duo Marron and Beto will be on campus this Wednesday, April 16, to play percussion instruments in the Red Room of the Dining Hall at 4 p.m. The two are well-known in their country: Marron as a dancer and one of the best percussionists in his country and Beto for his rhythmical ability. The two do not speak English and their performance will be translated. Janet Bailey will interpret.

Correction

The names of persons chosen to be on the advisory board of the National Captioning Institute for the eastern part of the country were erroneously reported in the March 31 issue of On the Green. Don G. Pettingill, director of Demonstration Programs with Continuing Education and Gerald Winalski, career development instructor at MSSD, are the two persons from Gallaudet who have been chosen for the board. Along with other members, they will be serving as liaisons between NCI and the deaf community as well as advising NCI on captioning standards and various research projects.

Campus visitors

Visitors to campus this week include:

- 14-20: Mr. Meier and Mrs. Odine Greiser, teachers of deaf students, Munich, Germany.
- 14-19: Claire Anselme and Jacqueline Lacaze, counselors for the deaf, France.
- 14 - Chapter E, P.E.O., visitors of Mrs. Merrill.
- 14-18: Malcolm Gordon, Joe Tobin, Isabelle Conyers and Joan Shilton, teachers from Northern Counties School, New Castle, Great Britain.
- 14 - Mr. Thomas, father of prospective MSSD student.
- Michael Knithton, teacher of the deaf, touring MSSD.
- Key Intermediate School, Springfield, VA.
- 15 - Malcolm X School, Washington, DC, sponsored by McDonald's Fun Bus Program.
- Elizabeth Seton High School, Bladensburg, MD.
- 16 - Crestwood Elementary School, gifted and talented program.
- 17 - Ms. Kuczborski and Ms. Fran Pearlman, mothers of prospective MSSD students.
- Elizabeth Seton High School, Bladensburg, MD.
- 18-21: Gloria Lee Hutchins, physical education professor, San Jose State University, CA.
- Pat Jordan, teacher of deaf students, Winston-Salem, NC.
- Jim Biser, manager of admissions, NTID.

Weekly program highlight

Gallaudet is pleased to announce that it is the recipient of two recent federal grants totaling $136,323. One award, for $94,033 is from ACTION (the federal agency that administers the Peace Corps). It was made to the International center on Deafness to recruit and train Peace Corps volunteers for a two-year deafness-related assignment in the Philippines. The project, directed by Eli Savanick, will provide stateside recruitment, selection and an eight-week technical orientation this summer to some 15 volunteers. Savanick will be going to the Philippines in advance of the orientation to assess needs; Mencie Yaguil-Hairston, project coordinator and Elaine Costello, evaluation specialist, will make a three-week post-orientation visit to conduct follow up and evaluation.

The second award, for $42,290 was made to MSSD by the National Science Foundation ("Physically Handicapped in Science Program"). The project, directed by Paul Cunningham, will field test a plant biology course developed and pilot tested at MSSD over the past two years. The field testing will occur in 20 schools/programs for the deaf across the country during the 1980-81 academic year and will culminate in a four-week workshop to be held at MSSD in the summer of 1981. The workshop product, to be nationally disseminated, will be a validated plant biology course curriculum for deaf high school students.

EPOC sponsors panel

EPOC will sponsor an Employer Panel this Tuesday, April 15 from 4-6 p.m. Employers from various agencies and business will discuss characteristics they evaluate in an employee, both during an interview and on the job.

Attendance is required for Summer '80 EPOC students, and other interested persons are welcome.

Joyful Sign to perform here

The Joyful Sign, an outreach activity of the Office of Campus Ministries, has had an exciting year presenting programs of inspirational music in sign-singing all over the area. They have been well-received in Richmond, Western Maryland, Baltimore, Harrisonburg, West Virginia and Washington, DC.

But there is no place like home, so the Joyful Sign is pleased to announce a "mini concert" here on campus for their friends, the Gallaudet College community. The event, called "Let's Celebrate!" will be held the evening of Thursday, April 24 at 8 p.m. in HMB Room 213.

Tickets are only $1 and can be purchased from any member of the Joyful Sign or at the Office of Campus Ministry. Everyone is welcome, but space in Room 213 is limited so get your tickets soon.

Also, be on the lookout for a new videotape in the Library Media Center done by the Joyful Sign called, "A Time for Music." More than 400 people crowded into the Student Union Lounge last year for the spring concert, "A Night for Music." This tape contains many of that show's songs and skits. If you'd like to view it, just ask for tape number 1435.

GCAA schedules picnic/meeting

The DC Chapter of Gallaudet College Alumni Association will have a potluck picnic/meeting on Wednesday, May 7. The picnic will start at 5 p.m. and continue until about 7 p.m., after which the meeting will officially begin. The picnic will be held on Faculty Row, close to the faculty houses, Chapel Hall, College Hall and Ole Jim. The meeting will be in the Alumni Room in the South Lounge of the Library.

Fried chicken will be provided by the Chapter. Picnic-goers are asked to bring a dish or dessert, enough to serve five to eight people. Bring your own soda, beer or wine (no hard liquor allowed).

This meeting is the last of this school year. The Chapter's next meeting will be in September.

Guidance counselor symposium scheduled

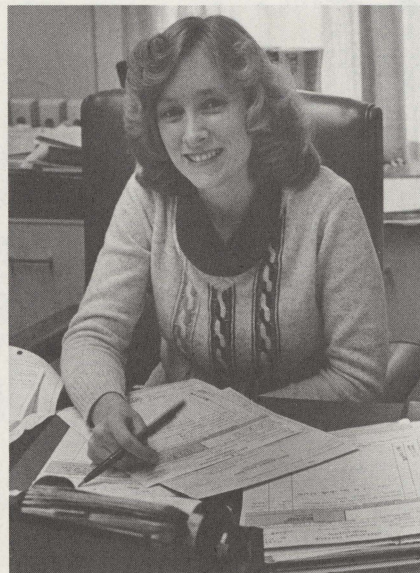

A two and one-half day symposium/seminar on "P.L. 94-142 and the Public School Guidance Counselor's Role with the Hearing Impaired Student" will be held at Gallaudet April 28, 29 and 30.

Public school counselors from Delaware, DC, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia who work with or anticipate working with hearing impaired students will be coming to hear presenters who are experts in hearing impairment, counseling and law.

The symposium is being sponsored by the Department of Counseling and the College for Continuing Education.

Church has interpreter

As part of their commitment to the ministry to the deaf, the Church of the Good Shepherd at 9350 Braddock Road in Burke, Va. now has an interpreter during the 11:15 service every Sunday morning. Classes in sign language are also held each Sunday. Depending on community response, it is the desire of the Committee on Ministry to the Deaf to open a Sunday School for deaf and hearing impaired elementary school aged children in the near future. For more information, call (after 5 p.m.) Elizabeth Wilson at 569-2928 or John Cornwell at 323-8456.

Jill Anderson is a buyer with Purchasing.

Letters

Dear On the Green:

Mark Twain attributed to Benjamin Disraeli the comment: "There are three kinds of lies: lies, damned lies and statistics." In the Feb. 25, 1980 edition of On the Green appeared statistics concerning salary information. No reason was given for publishing the statistics.

The smallest average percentage increase was the president's, namely 7.1%. Readers should, however, be careful in interpreting that. A small percentage is not necessarily a small raise. Start with a salary of $40,000 and a "small" percentage raise of 7% is a $2,800 raise. Start with a salary of $12,000 and a "big" percentage raise of 9% is a $1,080 raise. I think I'm allergic to wool in my eyes.

Sincerely,
Samuel B. Johnson, Asst. Prof.
Mathematics Department

To the Editor:

In the April 7 issue the story on "Project Information" carried among the primary concerns of campus personnel a quote to this effect: "Funding for Ole Jim—the lack of funding by the College itself."

That comment seems to show a lack of understanding of the situation regarding funding of restoration of historic buildings and the role of the College itself in the Alumni House Drive. Perhaps clarification will ease this concern.

The federal government does not readily make line appropriations for restoration projects of this nature. Hence the College does not directly allocate money to this effort. However, the Development Office has sought and received grants which will greatly aid the raising of funds for the restoration. The Department of the Interior has already made Historic Preservation Grants-in-Aid amounting to $375,000. The Kresge Foundation has offered a challenge grant of $150,000, available when the fund reaches $250,000. Anyone who knows grantsmanship realizes that sums like these do not come easily.

Besides these specific efforts, the Development Office has been a full partner in the drive. Everyone there is cooperative. Full responsibility for recording and acknowledging gifts and pledges is taken by that office. Barbara Harslem, Judy Bortner and Mary Anne Pugin have attended workshops for volunteers in the field. This is real cooperation.

Among Ourselves

Bill Varrieur, director of Experiential Programs Off Campus, has been re-elected Mid Atlantic representative for the Cooperative Education Association for the years 1980-82. He will represent Washington, DC, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. CEA is the association which represents all cooperative education programs in the nation.

James M. Pickett, director of Sensory Communication, was elected as a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at its annual meeting last January. In recognition of his "meritorious contribution to the advancement of science."

Fern Edwards, head College librarian, has been appointed to represent the four-year college librarians in this area on the Librarians' Committee of the Metropolitan Washington Council of Government's Library Council for 1980.

Eileen Ford received the MS degree in Instructional Systems Technology from the University of DC last December. She is the assistant librarian for Media Utilization at the College Library.

Judy Cox, assistant librarian for Acquisitions, received the MS degree in Library Science from Catholic University last December.

Dick Hoke, barrier free design coordinator and Tom Lillis, director of the Physical Plant, recently met with the State of New Jersey Advisory Council on the Deaf to discuss how physical environments can be modified to eliminate barriers to deaf people.

Janet Bailey, coordinator of the Visitors Center, recently interpreted for poets John Peck and Ellen Bryant Voight, who read from their work in a program at the Library of Congress. She was joined by several Gallaudet students who offered dramatic sign language interpretations of some poems. This is the first time sign language has been a part of one of the programs in the Library's literary series.

Lynn Jacobowitz, a Gallaudet sign language instructor who is hard at work writing a new play for the National Theatre of the Deaf, reports that she's found out from NTD that she is not actually commissioned to write the play (that implies that she will complete a specific project) but, rather, will be given a grant from NTD to help her continue working. Her goal is to finish the three-act play, "Institutional Blues," by the end of the year.

Interpreted Hirshhorn tours available

Tours for the hearing impaired are held at the Hirshhorn Museum of the Smithsonian Institute every Sunday at 12:30 p.m. Tour guide is Kenneth Puckett, an art history major at Gallaudet. Tours can also be given at other times by appointment. For more information contact Puckett at x5182 or Ted Lawson at 381-4411 TTY.
